

MLM Insider Selects XanGo

Since 1992, The MLM Insider—a major hub of network activity with industry clout—has released an objective and unbiased annual list of what it considers to be the best companies in network marketing. The decisions have been made for 2005–'06. The most complete and fit companies have stood up to be recognized in this year's The Best Companies in Network Marketing. Frankly and briefly: XanGo took two top honors.

1. The Editor's Selection

Corey Augenstein, editor-in-chief of MLM Insider Online, chose XanGo as one of the greatest companies in network marketing, based on firm management, excellent distributor support, generous compensation and a singular product.

2. The Distributor Choice Award

Really, this award pays the highest compliment there is. Loud thanks to our distributor partners for loving us—and letting others know it. We like the plaque, but not as much as we like knowing that our uncommonly close relationship with our distributors is absolutely genuine—and reciprocated. This is more (we'll say it: heartwarming) evidence that you feel for us what we feel for you. The list is compiled and printed. A whole new class of hungry entrepreneurs will be reading about the company whose distributors spoke up louder in praise than any other, and whose management, product and plan all give liberally.
